

Hunger, it's a way of life for an increasing number of families, especially during these times. Many face hopeless decisions around paying for medicine, heat, or food. Groups providing assistance struggle with increasing requests and shrinking resources. The Boy Scouts of America answer this call by collecting food and supporting community agencies that fight hunger.

Help us provide food and hope to our neighbors

Scouts of BSA Troop 101 are collecting food this year for the Marshfield Food Pantry. If you would like to donate, you can help our community by leaving a bag of the suggested items found below by:
